

Handwriting Font and Text Editor CD

Produce your own additional worksheets in Kingston Cursive using this Windows computer programme.

The KBER Handwriting Font and Text Editor program can be installed on your Windows computer and used to produce additional worksheets and other documents in simulated Kingston Cursive handwriting.

The program is used like a normal word processor but with a special facility to convert normal text to a cursive handwriting font. Not only will it produce the Kingston Cursive standard font but it will also produce versions with two or three line guides as well as several types of dotted fonts and a font with arrows to indicate the stroke direction. The computer program comes on a CD with installation instructions and details of how to set the various letter options for Kingston Cursive. This is a well tried and tested program and it is widely used.
